

O'BRIEN BOILER SERVICES – COVID-19 UPDATE

9 July 2020

To our Customers, Our Employees and Our Communities,

Considering recent COVID-19 announcements in Victoria which have taken effect from midnight last night, we want to assure you that our highest priority is the health and safety of our employees.

O'Brien Boiler Services strictly follows local, state, and federal government requirements, as well as our internal health and safety policies, to protect our employees. Those steps include but are not limited to providing protective wear and disinfection supplies for employees working on-site and regular sanitation practices throughout our business. Our office employees will be working from home in those functions where this can be accomplished.

With that said, we want to assure you that our focus on your business and unwavering dedication to ensure and support business continuity for will continue. O'Brien Boiler Services have established a range of strategies to ensure that breakdown response and boiler maintenance can be maintained.

Our goal remains to continue to deliver the service and support that you depend on, while continuing to implement and monitor preventative measures that do not compromise your health and safety and that of our employees.

Thank you,

Brendan and Shane O'Brien
